MESSAGE FROM RABBI LISA DELSON

I do not consider myself a runner. However, I have so much respect and admiration for people who are. A while back, I was listening to a podcast called Unorthodox by Tablet Magazine. They consider themselves the “world’s leading Jewish podcast.” In this particular episode, the hosts interviewed sports writer, Matthew Futterman, about his book called Running on the Edge, about the meditative qualities of running. As someone with limited knowledge about competitive running, I have accomplished exactly two 5k runs in my whole life. It never occurred to me that just like in preparing for other competitive sports, or a big meeting, or an interview, one would need to mentally prepare to run. Perhaps if I had this knowledge, my own running, or let’s be honest - jogging, would have been more enjoyable and meaningful than when I left my front door with headphones and sneakers and came back with a cramp in my side.

The idea of preparation is deeply embedded in the month leading up to the High Holy Days, the Hebrew month of Elul, which begins on August 17. Throughout this month, we mentally and physically prepare for Rosh HaShanah and Yom Kippur. These thirty days plus ten that lead us to Yom Kippur offer us the time to consider what it means to be humans in the bodies that we inhabit. We can consider what kind of person we are in our relationships. We can imagine the kind of person that we want to be in our relationship with God and in relation to our Jewish lives.

Just like with running without mental preparation, the High Holy Days without mental preparation can lead to a headache rather than a cramp in our side. We cannot expect to walk into the temple on Erev Rosh HaShanah and get the full meaning of Avinu Malkeinu without preparing ourselves in some way. How much the more so walking into the Sanctuary on Kol Nidre, standing and annulling our vows that we have made in the past and those that we might make in the future. Without preparation we do not build context for this deep experience of self-reflection.

Just like the book on running practices and drills, I would like to offer a few practices that we can use during the month of Elul to truly reap the benefits of thousands of years of our tradition.

Reading: The Jewish people have been described as the People of the Book for generations. Our practice is tied up with the ritual reading of the Torah and all of the Rabbinic and mystical texts that follow. While those texts are the cornerstone of Jewish thought, there are many more that offer insight on what it means to be a contemporary Jewish person or Jewish-adjacent person in our modern world. This reading does not supplant secular reading during the month of Elul; rather supplement our spiritual introspection and growth. Some of my favorite Elul reads are This is Real and You Are Completely Unprepared by Rabbi Alan Lew z”l. This brief book offers practices and context for the entire High Holy Day season. Another one of my favorite books on this topic is Einstein and the Rabbi by Rabbi Naomi Levy, which offers lines of connection between our souls and the universe.

Journaling: Writing down our thoughts and feelings in a non-judgmental way is one way of preparing ourselves for the deep soul work of the High Holy Days. Journaling can be as free-form as writing down lessons learned from the day, or just a record of what happened. It can also be structured. For example, at the end of each day, write down five things for which you are grateful. If you would like a guided experience, Rabbis Kerry M. Olitzky and Rachel T. Sabbath offer a guided journal that explores Psalm 27, the psalm connected to the High Holy Days called Preparing Your Heart for the High Holy Days.

Walk or hike: Hasidic master, Rabbi Nachman of Braslav’s students used to say: “Our rabbi, of blessed memory, even though he had a separate room in the village where he lived by himself, would nonetheless usually go over the fields into the woods; and he would seclude himself there. While [walking] around the fields and the mountains; he stretched his hand toward the fields and mountains and said to me: ‘On all these fields and mountains which you see around the town...I have walked several times.’” He continued on by saying, “it is good to go out for a ‘talk in the field.’ This ‘talk’ is prayer and supplication to God, and then all the shrubs of the field, which start to live and grow, yearn and are included in one’s prayer and plea.”<sup>[1]</sup>

When we go out into nature, we are giving ourselves the opportunity to recognize our place in the world. While our daily life is full of details, calendars, and errands - nature is the opposite. It frees us from the hardships of life and helps us remember that we are one small being in a grand universe. This sort of preparation allows us to enter the High Holy Day season with humility.

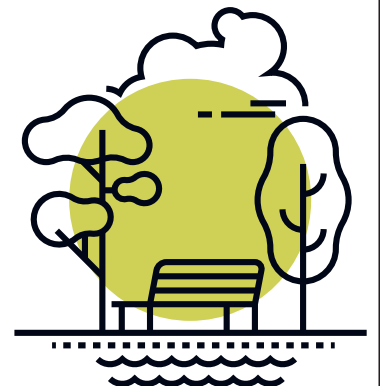

At this time of year, each of these seemingly secular activities have the power to truly connect us to our tradition. They offer us time and space to get in touch with our better selves, allow us to look up from our day-to-day lives, and spiritually prepare ourselves for our Jewish high holy day marathon.

The Gift of Mindfulness Wednesday, August 30 at 7 pm - no experience necessary

Join us for the Temple's mindfulness program. We will explore different dimensions of mindfulness practice - different kinds of meditation, Jewish text study, small group conversations, and real-life practices that you can carry into your everyday life. You can join in person OR join on Zoom:

<https://us02web.zoom.us/j/82344812325?pwd=bHcvZW00MzNQM2NvZnFGS2M3UXltQT09>
Meeting ID: 823 4481 2325 Passcode: 450003

This class is designed so that each session stands alone. There is no need to commit, and you can come to any single session at any time. The class is appropriate for teens and adults, and it is my hope that learning these practices will not only enrich your spiritual life, but your daily life, your relationships with your loved ones and with others in our Temple community.

Living a mindful life is about understanding yourself and your actions and reactions better, so that when you go out into the world you are able to engage more thoughtfully and calmly, and so better to discern the best way to move forward. The practices we will learn together will help you slow down and change your perspective on your own life, so that you are able to act with more wisdom and compassion as you move through the world. We will do all this while deepening our connections to Jewish teaching and spiritual practice.

Havdalah and Selichot: The Difficulty of Forgiveness

September 9, 2023 7-9pm

Join Rabbi Delson and Cantor Roher for discussion about the challenges of forgiveness and what it offers us when we do.

After the discussion, we will join together for Havdalah and Selichot services where we will change the Torah covers to white for the High Holy Day season.

RSVP by September 6 to mkuehnle@templese.com

LIBRARY NEWS

We had a very successful Joint Book Club Meeting with Etz Chayim and Congregation B'nai Israel Book Clubs on Thursday, July 20, at Congregation B'nai Israel. We discussed THE MATCHMAKER'S GIFT by Lynda Cohen Loigman. Sharon Stein gave the review and led the discussion. Alice Applebaum gave a short history of Jewish Matchmaking. We all enjoyed the coffee, iced tea and pastries.

I will have two children's books on display on the small table to the left of the office as you enter the Temple and several adult books and novels, as well.

1) A PICTURE BOOK OF CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS by David A. Alter and illustrated by John and Alexandra Wallmer. Christopher Columbus, who may have had Jewish ancestry, pleads for ships and supplies to sail to the East Indies at the height of the Spanish Inquisition and discovers America, a haven for Jews and many others.

2) RIFKA TAKES A BOW by Betty Rosenberg Perlov; illustrated by Cosei Kawa.

The year is 1915 and the Yiddish Theater is flourishing in New York City. Rifka's parents are performing in one of the many such theaters. Little Rifka wanders on to the stage where her parents are and speaks her first lines in public.

Joshua Aaron Corman will be called to the Torah as a Bar Mitzvah on Saturday, August 12, 2023 at Temple Shomer Emunim. Josh is the son of Amy and Scott Corman and the brother of Madison. He is the grandson of Gail and Larry Hoicowitz, Carol and Michael Corman, and Sharon and Richard Maddin.

Josh is in 7th grade at Timberstone Junior High where he takes honors courses. He plays soccer, tennis and enjoys swimming. In his free time, Josh loves playing video games and spending time with his friends and family. Josh is working on his Mitzvah Project to collect electronics for the Toledo Children’s Hospital, giving children a chance to experience technology. Josh is very excited to celebrate his Bar Mitzvah!

Clergy Visits to Hospitals

Because of HIPPA, which guarantees patient privacy, it is difficult for us to know when one of our congregants is in the hospital.

We want to be able to visit you if and when you are hospitalized. We want to be able to offer you the solace and perspective of our tradition. We want to let you know that we are, but that can only happen if we know where you are.

PLEASE call if you or someone you know is in the hospital, in a rehabilitation facility or under Hospice care. You MUST indicate which synagogue you belong to, or your name won’t be released. We want to be able to support you and your family.

A Note from the President
Reminding people to STAY HOME if they are sick

As a courtesy to all who are participating in our programs, please do not attend if you have any signs or symptoms of upper respiratory infections, flu, Covid-19, cough, sneezing, fever or otherwise feeling ill. While we would love to have you with us, our goal is to have as safe of an environment as possible.
